

Iceland – The New Opportunity

BIS Conference Centre, Westminster - Thursday, 29 September 2011, 12pm – 5pm

The British Icelandic Chamber of Commerce, in association with the Embassy of Iceland in London, UK Trade & Investment and Promote Iceland, is delighted to invite you to a symposium in London on 29 September 2011.

It will bring together key figures in politics, business, finance and energy to discuss Iceland's progress since the financial crisis of 2008 and the prospects for the economy and trade.

The symposium will appeal to those who follow trade and finance between the UK and Iceland and will give delegates access to some of the key figures who are influencing the Iceland of the future.

Speakers will include:

- Árni Páll Árnason, Minister of Economic Affairs
- Már Guðmundsson, Governor, Central Bank of Iceland
- Cyrus Ardalan, Vice-Chairman, Barclays Plc
- Franek Rozwadowski, IMF Resident Representative, Iceland
- Hörður Arnarson, CEO, Landsvirkjun, The National Power Company
- Helga Valfells, New Business Venture Fund

The event will start at 12 noon, with an address by Árni Páll Árnason, Minister of Economic Affairs, followed by a buffet lunch. The afternoon will conclude with a drinks reception. Admission to the event is free to all.
